Thoughts from your District Governor ...

2-S2'S NEW ROAR: "WE CAN DO IT"

Say the magic words and be a "winner". I'll help you out. It happens on May 2nd and 3rd at the Hilton North at I-45 and Greens Road.

If you said "District Convention" and you've already made your hotel reservations and registered, then you are a "Winner".

It's not too late to make hotel reservations or register for the Convention.

I hope all the members of District 2-S2 will be there to celebrate 1st District Governor Chris becoming the 2014-2015 District Governor and yours truly going out.

Even though I have been told by certain members that they have chosen not to join in with District 2-S2 this year because they do not approve of choices made by your current District Governor, I feel they hurt the entire District, not just me.

Every year a new governor is elected. He is responsible for making his own choices that he considers to be in the best interest of the entire District and Lionism, not just one entity.

I hope for the District and the new District

Governor, all personal feelings will be put aside and all Lions club members will support him 100%.

I have been fortunate to visit over 2/3 of the clubs in District 2-S2. Diana and I feel very blessed as we have made many friends and met some of the nicest people in the world – they are LIONS!

I have a hard time thinking about why it is a job getting someone to run for Governor – it is such an experience.

Join in, be a volunteer, be a part of your service club.

See you at the District Convention.

Yours in faithful Lionism,

DG EDDIE RISHA

Thoughts from the 1st Vice District Governor ...

Cate and I have been watching the Cosmos remake that started several weeks ago. It is a reboot of the mini-series Carl Sagan launched over 30 years ago. One of the stories told in the opening episode involved the ancient Roman philosopher Titus Lucretius. Lucretius argued that space can never end. He offered the following thought experiment to make his point. Imagine you shoot an arrow at the edge of the universe. It either flies forever, meaning the universe is infinite, or it will hit something and stop. Imagine then that you stand on top of whatever the arrow hits and shoot it again. Eventually, the arrow will either fly infinitely without hitting anything or you will continue shooting outwards. In both cases, there is no limit to universe. This thought experiment stuck with me, because it is such a simple example of showing how something can be infinite. Shooting an arrow at it flying on forever or hitting something and shooting it again.

At this point, or starting around the third or fourth sentences, you probably started wondering where the heck is Chris going with this. What does some ancient Roman philosopher flinging arrows into outer space have to do with Lions? The thought experiment. Imagine you or your club is the arrow being shut towards a goal doing good works. You either continue doing them forever or you hit an obstacle. What do we do when we hit an obstacle? Like Lucretius, we climb up it to the top and shoot the arrow again. Too many times when people hit an obstacle, they backtrack, they say "Oh well, that's as far as we can go." Our chances of servicing our communities are limitless. There are a myriad of things we can do. Sure some obstacles might be thrown in our path, but we can overcome them and continue on.

Thoughts from the 2nd Vice District Governor ...

The doorbell rang this morning (Sunday) with an unexpected caller at the door. Mike went to an estate sale yesterday and presented me with the results of his find – 4 plaques. You have read my comments this year about "the story" – how each club and lion has a story to tell. Well, my neighbor had a story that I did not know. His name is Robert Werner. Robert passed away recently. I never knew Robert. In 1967-68 he was a Director of the Crippled Children's Camp for which he received a

District Governor's Award from District Governor J.L. "Jimmy" McPherson. In 1965-66 Robert was the District Parliamentarian for which he received a District Governor's Award from District Governor Edward M. Harwell. In 1959-60 year Robert was Deputy District Governor and received an award plaque from District Governor E.A. Stephan stating, "In sincere appreciation and recognition of distinguished service, loyalty and devotion to the objects and furtherance of Lionism." The 4th plaque was given to Robert for serving as President of the Huntsville Lions Club 1959-1960 stating, "In honor and with deep appreciation and unselfish service given to the club while serving with outstanding leadership, vision and ability as President of the Huntsville Lions Club".

One of the greatest pleasures this past 10 months was to visit clubs and hear stories. As I listen to the stories, I was reminded of the Christian song "This Little Light of Mine". One verse goes "This little light of mine, hide it under a bushel, NO!".

I listened to the Hardin Club talk

Houston Surgeon “Doc Joe” Agris Has His Own Zero Dark Thirty Tale

“Tears On The Sand” tells of American’ doctor’s successful search for Osama bin Laden

The hit movie “Zero Dark Thirty” chronicles the expensive, decade-long manhunt that ended with the killing of Osama bin Laden in Abbottabad, Pakistan in May of 2011. Many people wondered why it took so long, given the seemingly unlimited money and manpower at the disposal of those who sought to bring the world’s most wanted man to justice. But what if a single resourceful civilian – one who emphatically didn’t have millions of dollars, high technology, and limitless manpower – had actually tracked bin Laden down a couple of years before the successful completion of Operation Neptune Spear? What if this civilian had gained the trust of the Sheik’s inner circle and had actually been invited to sit and converse with bin Laden – not one, not two, but five times? And what if, in the process of finding bin Laden, this person came across disturbing evidence that the Pakistani government was complicit in keeping bin Laden’s whereabouts a secret? What if he also uncovered “inconvenient” truths about the incompetence and bungling of the U.S. government? These are the scenarios that Houston surgeon, philanthropist, and author Dr. Joseph Agris explores in his new book, “Tears On The Sand” (A to Z Publishing), available now.

Years before the Navy SEAL team stormed the bin Laden compound, Dr. Agris embarked upon his own hunt for bin Laden. His purpose was not to take him down but instead to simply talk to, and come to understand, a man who was vilified by the world at large but also much-beloved by millions. In “Tears On The Sand,” Dr. Agris chronicles his harrowing quest to find bin Laden. He also shares a series of insightful and heated exchanges with the Sheik, and provides a wealth of historical information and current insights into the terrorist threats that continue even today.

Come early to eat - meeting starts at 7:00 pm

PSC President - Ken Harrison

PSC Secretary - Lynn Harrison

The tale that unfolds in “Tears On The Sand” shows that “Doc Joe,” lacking the boundless resources of the U.S. government, used good old-fashioned “boots on the ground” detective work to find bin Laden. He also took advantage of the trust he had earned among Pakistanis as a healer rather than a killer. He managed to befriend a range of people, from ordinary folks whose children he had treated, to venerated Islamic scholars, to some of bin Laden’s top “war lords,” who vowed that they had his back. He learned and took advantage of information that others apparently considered unimportant, such as the fact that bin Laden was a big Pepsi drinker. In fact it was what Doc Joe calls the “Pepsi trail” that ultimately led him to bin Laden’s door.

Dr. Agris originally went to Pakistan to provide free medical care to the many children who needed reconstructive surgery as a result of burns, accidents, or congenital facial defects, and to teach local surgeons how to perform the procedures. He also became involved in repairing the damaged faces and bodies of women who were the victims of acid attacks or kerosene burnings – a routine occurrence in that part of the world. (There’s plenty of fascinating and disturbing information about all of that in “Tears On The Sand” as well.) But Dr. Agris found himself increasingly fascinated by the paradox presented by Osama bin Laden, not to mention by the manhunt itself, which had already cost many lives and many millions of dollars at the time Dr. Agris began his own search. After spending years listening to what was being said (and more significantly, not said) in discussions about bin Laden, he knew he had to find and share the truth, despite the very real possibility that doing so might get him killed.

He did in fact have quite a few hair-raising – and even life-threatening – adventures on the way to finding bin Laden, adventures which he documents in “Tears On The Sand.” Included is a chilling narrative, from a front row seat (or rather, an up-in-the-tree seat) of the Zero Dark Thirty op in real time.

Dr. Agris says, “One of my goals in writing ‘Tears On The Sand’ was to provide insights about Osama bin Laden from a perspective that many people may not have considered. But I think my own quest to find the Sheik is also a story worth telling.”

He says it’s difficult to determine who really found whom, explaining that he was repeatedly told, “When you go searching for Osama bin Laden, it is he who will find you.” In any case, Dr. Agris believes that the information he found through his own detective work could have potentially resulted in the elimination of bin Laden many months before the task was actually accomplished. Indeed, Dr. Agris says that in an attempt to share information he had found, he sought an audience with numerous Washington politicians, including Secretary of State Hillary Clinton, but was summarily rebuffed.

“Tears On The Sand” is both an accurate portrayal of a country awash in systemic violence and corruption, and a dramatization of Dr. Agris’ successful quest to find and talk to Osama bin Laden. Juxtaposed with the author’s personal narrative is the story of how bin Laden became global Public Enemy #1. Doc Joe explains how Bin Laden funded his reign of terror by becoming the world’s most prolific heroin dealer and selling upwards of $2 billion dollars worth of his life-robbing drugs in the United States alone. Bin Laden then used those profits to buy the weapons used to kill Americans, as well as his fellow Muslims.

And, Dr. Agris warns, the fact that bin Laden is dead should be no cause for complacency. He cites evidence that the Pakistani government either couldn’t or wouldn’t find him, despite knowing that their quarry had obtained and distributed a number of suitcase-sized nuclear bombs. That is another issue discussed in “Tears On The Sand” – the continued threat posed by these bombs. “Osama may be gone, but the bombs remain unaccounted for, to be used, I fear, when the time is right,” says Dr. Agris.

Though some people dispute the threat of the suitcase bombs, what few will dispute are the ongoing threats of radical Islam and terrorism. As a lifelong humanitarian who nevertheless has gained a thorough understanding of the grim reality of terrorist threats, Dr. Agris hopes his book will help wake more people up to the fact that people in the West can never again afford to be complacent. Yet, he cautions, we have to temper our vigilance with an understanding of, and compassion for, the people of the Middle East. It’s sometimes a delicate balance, but one that is necessary to reach if humanity is to survive.

In the aftermath of a U.S. election season that was rife with chest-beating and finger-pointing, “Tears On The Sand” provides needed perspective about what is really going on in one of the world’s most volatile regions. “It is often said that American voters are both apathetic and uninformed,” says Dr. Agris. “I hope that reading this book will help to change that. Osama is dead, but his legacy lives on, and if we ever hope to alter our present course of disaster, we all need to become not only much more informed, but also much more engaged.”

Dr. Agris will gift his recently published book “Tears On The Sand” to each guest in attendance at the PSC Meeting on May 7, 2014.

Earth Day - April 22

FELLOW LIONS AND FRIENDS,

April 22, is a day when each of us should take the time out to do something productive in preserving the environment. The environment is a priceless commodity and we need to give it the respect, the care, the love; show it the gratitude that it deserves. During this time let us try to recruit a least one person for membership. Let's get out and do something special. If you do not have designated projects join us at the Burnett Bayland Park at 10am. See you there.

Stedman Douglas
Environmental Chair

The obstacles can come in numerous ways. Low meeting turnout, low membership, general malaise. Lions International offers help with these and other club issues in the member center at the LCI website. Browse through it and if you or your club is having issues, I bet there is a resource available to help address it. And catch the new Cosmos series if you have a chance, it is a great show. Maybe we can discuss Sir Isaac Newton sometime.

about how they got down to 2 members, but did not want to give up. Now they are up to 25 and have their own building they use for their meeting place.

I visited the Prairie View A&M University Lions Club, now over 30 members, and watched their enthusiasm as they provided an opportunity for other students to learn about Lions, to help the Texas Lions Camp, and just have fun.

I worked with members of the Sam Houston State University, Katy, Liberty, and Huntsville Lions clubs as we repaired a home. I listened to members of clubs and their stories and thought "This is neat".

If you can, come to the District Convention and listen to the story of the 5 lions who will be receiving the PDG Distinguished Achievement Award.

But most of all, tell others of your story, your club's story, and the Lions Clubs International story and invite others to join in that story. God Bless you.
